Section D: Comprehension MCQ (5 x 2 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer questions that follow.

Sweat poured into John's eyes though the night was bitterly cold. John had been running down the deserted highway for about an hour. The dim moonlight cast eerie shadows on the wide road. He thought he had heard wild dogs howling in the distance. He prayed silently for someone to drive by but knew that his chances were slim as this was no longer a popular route since the new highway opened.	5
Far down the road he saw what looked like two pale eyes. The eyes drew nearer. They were the headlights of a car! Suddenly almost crazed with relief, John stepped into its path, waving his arms, and hardly caring for his safety. The car drew to a halt. John then dashed to the passenger side and opened the door.	10
"My car broke down about three kilometers back along the road. The useless thing is completely dead. I need a ride to the nearest taxi stand," he blurted desperately to the driver.
"Certainly," the driver said in a cheery tone. "Hop in."	15
John started having second thoughts when he suddenly caught a whiff of the stench that emitted from the car.
"Oh no. Durians!" John thought to himself.
Adapted from 'Faces' by Dennis Hamley

Marie Curie was deep in thought about an experiment she had just conducted as she walked silently towards home. It was the 1900s and Marie Curie was just a young Polish scientist studying at a university. No one at that time would have imagined that she would be one of the greatest contributors to medical science one day.	5
In her early days as a student, Marie was working on a rock that gave off mysterious rays of energy. Marie decided that there must be an element in the rock which no one knew about that gave off the energy. Convinced by her theory, both she and her husband, Pierre, set about attempting to find out. They conducted many experiments over an extended period of time. The Curies encountered many failures along the way but they were never discouraged.	10
After a lot of work, they finally found the element that gave off the energy. They named it radium. Today, radium is used in the treatment of some diseases and cancer is one of them.	15

ALL ANSWERS MUST BE IN COMPLETE SENTENCES.

53. What was special about the rock Marie Curie was working on?

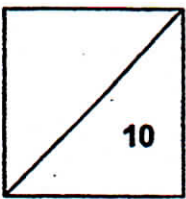

54. Why did Marie Curie and her husband conduct experiments on the rock?

55. How did the Curies' findings contribute to medical science?

56. What does the word 'them' (line 15) refer to?

57. What best describes the Curies' attitude towards their work during the period when the experiments were conducted?
