Section G: Vocabulary Cloze (8 marks)

Read the passage carefully. Fill in each blank with a suitable word.

Narwhals belong to the toothed whale family. They live in the _____ waters of the Arctic Circle. Male Narwhals can grow up to 5m (28)

long and _____ 1600kg whereas females are usually smaller in size, (29)

measuring 3.5m long and weighing 1000kg.

What makes narwhals unusual is that the males have a long tusk. It is an ivory tooth that is 2 to 3m _____. That is why they are sometimes (30)

_____ as the unicorns of the sea.
(31)

In the mediaeval times, traders sold these tusks as unicorn horns. They claimed the _____ had magical properties. As people _____ (32) (33)

that narwhals tusks could make poison harmless, kings and queens made cups out of them. One narwhal horn cup that belonged to Queen Elizabeth I of England cost ten thousand pounds – the same price as a castle then!

All the male narwhals have long tusks. Some _____ have tusks too but most do not. The mystery is that nobody _____ what the (35)

narwhals use their tusks for. What do you think the narwhal's tusk is for?

Section H: Comprehension (10 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer questions 36 to 40.

Michael blew into his gloved hands while he waited for his brother to return from the shed. The wait in the cold seemed like eternity. When Sam returned, he was carrying some strips of wood.

"It's freezing. Hurry up, Sam," Michael said, looking at the whirling snow around them.

Michael held the lamp for Sam to work on the door. As Sam began hammering the strips of wood to the broken door, some noises echoed from the frozen fields across their farm. Sam dropped his hammer immediately. Michael held up the lamp in the direction of the coop.

"Did you hear that?" Sam asked Michael, who nodded vigorously.

Another sound filled the air again. It was the loud and continuous clucking of the hens in the coop. They sounded frightened and agitated. Sam raced down the stony path in great fury. Michael was close by. Sam had lost three hens in the past fortnight and was not about to lose another. He saw a flash of brownish black as he approached the coop. Then he saw its black-ringed tail. The raccoon emerged from the tree beside the coop.

15

"Go away!" Sam roared. It stood still and looked at the two boys for a while. The predator only ran into the woods when Michael ran towards it.

The hens in the coop were flapping and running up and down as Michael counted them. He was glad that none of the chickens was missing. Later, Sam checked on the wire fencing. He was relieved that the coop was still secure.
