Section H: Comprehension (Selected Response) (5 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

Father and I were at Uncle Arthur and Aunty Joyce's house by the river. They had fish traps set and they told us we could have the fishes there. The traps, which were made out of wire mesh, were supported by tree trunks stuck into the sand. There was a row of traps going way out across the water. Once the fish swam into the trap, they could not get out.

Early in the morning, Father and I decided to check the fish traps first. I could not wait to see what was caught. I ran ahead and saw that the water was up to my knees. However, I knew the tide was going out and that within minutes, the water would be round my ankles. It was quite dark and I slowed down to wait for Father. He carried the lamp so we could see what was caught in the trap.

10

Suddenly, I heard Father calling me, urgently, "Stop there. Don't move. Come back slowly." I looked around and sure enough, there were two eyes protruding from the water on the other side of the fish trap. It was a crocodile. My eyes never left them as I slowly moved backwards to where Father was. The wire from the trap scratched me and it hurt terribly. However, I still had to walk slowly back to the river bank.

15

Uncle Arthur saw what had happened from afar and rushed back to get his rifle. Soon, he returned and shot the crocodile. That night, we had a good feast. It was my first time eating crocodile meat. For years after, the head of the crocodile sat on a tree stump. Over the years, the skull turned all white. It was indeed an unforgettable incident that taught me to be alert at all times.

Section I: Comprehension (Open-Ended) (10 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer questions 41 to 48.

The litter of seven puppies was emptied from a filthy basket for inspection.

Bolt was the most adorable one amongst them. His big brown eyes melted my heart once I set eyes on him. As soon as he saw me, he started wagging his tail in excitement. When he tried to stand up, his legs could barely 5 straighten. As I picked him up and put him inside my coat, he tried to show his affection by licking my face. I pretended that I was not aware of his appalling stench.

Although Bolt did not seem to mind his state of hygiene, I gave him a thorough bath in warm water and soap once we reached home. Then, I put a 10 brown leather collar around his neck. I had kept the collar for years, in memory of my first faithful dog, which had saved my younger brother and me from a bear attack.

When Bolt had gained more strength to move around, I took him to the park so that he could explore the area. We were standing around some dense 15 thorn bushes when I spotted a strange-looking bird. I was fascinated by it and wanted to take a closer look. I pursued the bird with all my might and managed to grab hold of it. However, it struggled and escaped my clutches. Frantically, it flew into the thorn bushes. Drawn to the commotion, Bolt dashed into the bushes to chase the bird. The bushes were too thick and thorny for me so I had 20 to run around to the open ground behind the bushes to see what had happened to the bird.

There I found Bolt looking curiously at the bird, which was lying on the ground. It looked as if it was injured. I foolishly tried to lift the bird by the neck. The reaction from the bird was immediate. The bird lashed out with both legs, 25 hitting Bolt who had put his nose too close to the bird. It took Bolt a few seconds to recover from the shock. The next moment, the bird flew away. Feeling upset, we headed for home not long after that. When we finally got home, Bolt and I were exhausted.
