21 April 2018

That waitress is really going out of her way to help that poor lady calm her crying child down!

Her name is Rachel Sim. I caught a glimpse of her name tag when she was serving us.

That's very observant of you, Thomas! I'm also impressed with the smile on her face when serving the customers!

She also went out of her way to ensure that we did not order too many dishes.

Yes! A lot of food would have gone to waste if she had carelessly taken our orders for all the five dishes that we wanted!

See that sign over there? Do you think we should write in to recommend Rachel?

She definitely deserves it, Mum! Not only will I write in but I will also tell my friends about the good food here!

Instant noodles are delicious, cheap and very quick and easy to prepare. In Japan, it is so well-loved that a poll in Tokyo revealed it as the best (16) invention of the 20th century. In 2015 alone, 52 countries ate 40 billion servings of instant noodles! While in some parts of the world, instant noodles may be (17) synonymous with Maggi Mee, it all started with Nissin Foods.

Momofuku Ando, the founder of Nissin Foods, observed a long line of people queuing up for a bowl of ramen after the war as food was a scarce commodity then. That scene on the street inspired him to create noodles that had a long shelf-life, was easy to prepare and could satisfy people easily.

In recent years, scientists have been concerned about the health problems (18) brought about by instant noodles as they are often criticised as being unhealthy food. (19) Nonetheless, some would argue that these are the same concerns (20) associated with any processed food. Thus, food that has been processed is best eaten in moderation.

Furry Friends Animal Shelter Open House

15 May 2018
10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Greetings from Furry Friends! Do you wish to learn more about our animals and what we do at this animal shelter? Well, now you can! During the open house, we will also be offering hour-long guided tours of our premises. The guides, who are all long-time volunteers, will tell you about each of our animals' stories – their lives before and after rescue – and about this shelter's daily operations. Due to space constraint, we can only accommodate up to a maximum of 10 visitors per group. Please visit our website to sign up for the guided tours at least a week before the day of our open house to avoid disappointment. Registration will close on 8 May 2018.

Thinking of Adopting a Pet during the Open House?

Bring your whole family along to interact with our animals. These unfortunate animals have been abandoned and are in dire need of a stable home. We are confident that you will fall in love with our animals. However, we believe that our animals and their potential owners must connect and be comfortable with one another even before adoption is considered.

Free Adoption Starter Kit!

To help you get started, we provide a free kit for every first-time pet owner. Depending on the type of animal you adopt, the kit may include items like bedding, grooming tools, food samples, and pet supplies vouchers!

ADOPT, DON'T BUY!

Every month, Furry Friends Animal Shelter takes in about 20 stray animals and 10 animals from pet owners who want to give up their pets. There are numerous other shelters in Singapore, and the number of animals that need to be taken care of is increasing at an alarming rate.

When you adopt an animal from a shelter, you are not only giving that animal a second chance but you are also helping shelters save more lives by freeing up space for them to take in more animals.

HELP ANIMALS TODAY...
BECOME A VOLUNTEER!

1. Do you love animals?
2. Are you at least 18 years of age?
3. Can you volunteer on a weekly basis for at least 6 months?
4. Are you comfortable with handling animals?
5. Would you be willing to clean animal enclosures?

If you have answered 'Yes!' to all the above questions, WE NEED YOU!
You can visit our website to sign up as a volunteer or come by our Volunteers Office during our open house and speak to Vic Lee, our Volunteers Manager.

(20 marks)

There were very few milk deliveries to residences on Saturdays. My father would finish his deliveries early and swing by the house in his milk truck for Bobby and me so we could "surf the truck". The empty metal milk crates were by then stacked and roped off expertly against the side panels to prevent them from sliding. This left most of the back empty, and Bobby and I would stand in the space created our feet planted firmly on the ribbed floor, and our arms out at our sides in an attempt to remain upright as the truck rattled along the streets

5

I always surfed in the forward position which was an advantage because I could see the turns coming. Bobby surfed more or less blindly behind me. He claimed that that made the game much more fun, though I did help him by calling out "Left!" or "Sharp right!" when a turn approached. The idea of the game was to make it through these turns without grabbing the empty milk crates or the railing that ran the length and breadth of the truck for balance. My father would occasionally chortle at our silly antics. Sometimes when we looked so hilarious, we would hear a loud guffaw from the front.

10

Though the law was not enforced, my father was not supposed to take Bobby and me in his truck. I would pat his hand appreciatively from time to time and say, "I owe you one, Papa!"

15

There was no passenger seat, since there weren't supposed to be any passengers, so if my father braked hard, there was nothing to stop Bobby and me but the metal railing that was there in place of the passenger seat. My father would try to grab us as we flew by, and he was good at it. We were grateful for it but we never knew what his big fist would grab hold of – an arm or our hair – and being saved from hitting the front windscreen sometimes hurt worse than colliding with it.

20

There was always much to worry about us getting hurt. Well, because that was what invariably happened. Of course our injuries were not serious – a jammed finger, a skinned knee, and most Saturdays we surfed until I cried. Somehow, Bobby, when he was injured, refused to cry. I deeply envied Bobby's self-control and tried my best to emulate him so our fun could go on longer. Every Saturday, I would tell myself that I was not going to cry. However, when I went crashing into the side of the truck, and my father, upon hearing the impact, turned around in his seat to check on me, my resolution would dissolve.

25

Each week, I told myself I would be braver, that this Saturday, I would not reach out and hold on for safety. But every outing was the same as the last and when the moment came, I grabbed on for safety. I hated the fact that Bobby never did. Neither did he cry. Gradually, I began wishing for something else entirely. I never wanted Bobby to be seriously injured, of course. But I did wish that just once he would be hurt bad enough to cry

35

Therefore, our milk-truck surfing ended the only way it could. I did not witness the event unfold when Bobby was flung against the side of the truck. I heard the bone break. What saved me from suffering the same fate was my cowardice. I had seen in advance the turn coming and instead of alerting Bobby, I reached out and grabbed one of the tied-off milk crates. Bobby, taken by surprise, went flying. He immediately sat down, cradling his left wrist which was hanging limply. I loathed the fact that there were still no tears!

40

Later, at the hospital, I remembered what he had said to me a few minutes before passing out. "Mary, you didn't call the turn." He seemed more curious than angry as to why I had not warned him, but it was an accusation just the same. As soon as he spoke those words, I realised they were true. What had I done? This time, I shed tears of disgrace.
