1 hour 10 minutes

INSTRUCTIONS TO CANDIDATES

Do not turn over this page until you are told to do so.

There are two parts to this paper - Part 1 and Part 2.

Answer both questions.

This booklet consists of 3 printed pages excluding the cover page.

Part 1: Situational Writing (15 marks)

Question 1

The picture below shows Mark and his classmate, Gopal, discussing a poster. Study the pictures carefully.

Youth Steps Challenge

Calling all
13 to 18-year-olds!

Take 10 000 steps a day and win attractive prizes!

Registration Information: 29 & 30 September 2018

Singapore Sports Mall Atrium

Upon registration, you will receive a FREE steps tracker watch!

Visit www.youthcorps.sg for more details!

Sponsor:  Fitness Essentials

Organiser:  Youth Corps

This looks interesting, Gopal! It's a pity we're not old enough to take part! Since we walk to school every day, I'm sure we would be able to meet the target and win prizes!

I should tell my cousin, Maya, about the challenge. She's in that age group and has always wanted a steps tracker watch. Moreover, she walks a considerable distance to school daily and will surely meet the target!

Your Task

Imagine you are Gopal.

Write an email to your cousin, Maya, to encourage her to register for the Youth Steps Challenge.

You are to refer to the pictures and information on page 1 for your email.

In your email, include the following key information:

- dates of registration
- why you are not eligible to take part in the Steps Challenge
- what Maya needs to do to meet the target set by the Steps Challenge
- why Maya will be able to meet the target set by the Steps Challenge
- two things that would encourage Maya to participate

You may reorder the points. Remember to write in complete sentences.

Part 2: Continuous Writing (40 marks)

Question 2

Write a composition of at least 150 words about forgiveness.

The pictures are provided to help you think about this topic.

Your composition should be based on one or more of these pictures.

Consider the following points when you plan your composition:

- Who was/were forgiven?
- Why were they forgiven?

You may use the points in any order and include other relevant points as well.

Having endured a blistering spell, I prayed for rain. The heat, combined with the teacher's rambling, had a (16) lulling effect on my classmates and me. We were trying desperately to focus, or at least some of us were.

Then I heard a tinkling sound. Any distraction was a welcome respite from the (17) monotonous tone of the teacher. As the sound grew louder, I felt more energized. Then I realised it was the wind that (18) was breathing life into the class. I sat up and smiled. As the wind became stronger, the sound from the wind chime progressed into a loud clanging. When it finally rained, I cheered silently. It was premature, as the rain (19) only lasted ten minutes. Minutes after, the air grew still. The humidity in the air was wreaking havoc on my attention span.

We stepped forward, shirts damp, to submit our assignments before heading for the canteen. As the crowd at the doorway of the classroom (20) thinned out, I turned around, only to be greeted by the sight of Ah Bao, the class bully. I saw him stuffing a wallet into his pocket!

BLANK PAGE

Study this banner that is found along the fence of Spring View Primary, and then answer questions 21 to 28.

Let's make the internet a better place!

In 2004, Safer Internet Day kicked off in Europe. Thereafter, on the second Tuesday of February every year, like-minded people all over the world reaffirmed their commitment to create a safer internet for everyone. On 12 February 2019, Spring View Primary School will join many other schools in the nationwide commemoration of Safer Internet Day!

At Spring View Primary School, our objectives are to educate you about the perils of cyberspace and equip you with knowledge and skills to be safe online. Seeing that our objectives cannot be achieved in a single day, we will be rolling out a "Cyber Savvy" programme in the course of the year to help all of you navigate cyberspace with discernment and confidence. So, participate actively in the activities and be a cyber-savvy Spring View pupil!

SPOTLIGHT ON CYBERBULLYING

What are some examples of cyberbullying?

- Hurtful messages, texts or emails
- Embarrassing photos or videos
- Excluding someone online
- Spreading false rumours about someone online

How can you stand up to cyberbullying?

1. STAY CALM – An agitated response may trigger more bullying
2. RECORD THE EVIDENCE – Save screenshots, messages, comments, photos or videos that show acts of bullying
3. BLOCK THE BULLY – Prevent the bully from contacting you
4. CONFIDE IN SOMEONE – Let trusted adults like your parents or teachers know and seek their support and advice

If you know that your friend is being cyberbullied, speak to your friend openly and show that you care. Be supportive and sensible, and advise your friend to confide in trusted adults.

What the "Cyber Savvy" Programme has in store for all of you!

Primary 1 Pupils

E-learning is an important part of school life! Your teachers will take you to the computer labs to guide you through the steps so that you can use your computers at home to learn independently!

Primary 2 & 3 Pupils

The cyberspace offers a wealth of interesting and educational tools! Trainers from Cyber Whiz will help you discover some of the most popular ones!

Primary 4 Pupils

Sign up to be a Cyber Savvy Champion & enjoy the 5-day training camp that will be conducted by your teachers! Step up, take the lead and be responsible for spreading important internet safety messages to all your peers next year! Register with your teacher and sign up by 9 November 2018!

Primary 5 Pupils

Complete the "Cyber Savvy" card activities in pairs & stand to win attractive prizes!

Primary 6 Pupils

Learn what cyberbullying is about and how you can stand up to cyberbullies! A 3-day "Be Cyber Smart" workshop led by Cyber Whiz trainers will be part of your post-PSLE activities!

Calling all friends and neighbours of Spring View Primary School! We will be having an Open House for Safer Internet Day in 2019. Our Cyber Savvy Champions will be sharing useful computer skills with you. If you have an interesting skill to share, online tools to use, or any questions about the internet, drop us a message into a box in the General Office by 9 November 2018 and we will get back to you.

Mr Simon Cheng
Teacher-in-charge of the "Cyber Savvy" Programme

(20 marks)

In the mist-shrouded mountains of Nepal's Hongu River Valley, you will find a wiry and unassuming man named Mauli Dhan. He is believed to be one of the rare few still involved in this perilous and difficult journey of honey harvesting. It has been 42 years since Mauli developed a passion for honey-hunting. It all began when he was 15 after he assisted his father with a honey harvest for the first time. In the decades since then, Mauli has risked his life to harvest the sweet substance from the same cliffs his father began harvesting a generation ago.

Mauli sits beside the fire pit in his dilapidated, one-room home. The walls, riddled with cracks, look as if they could cave in at any moment. Most homes visible from his doorway have bright blue metal roofs, but his is made of thatched grass, a sign of poverty. No other honey hunter except Mauli is allowed to rip hives from the rock walls with his bare hands. However, clearly the honour doesn't bring in a great deal of cash.

10

Now, at a hundred metres in the air, Mauli dangles on a bamboo rope ladder, surveying the section of granite he has to climb to reach his goal: a pulsing mass of thousands of giant Himalayan honeybees. The bees are guarding gallons of sticky fluid known as mad honey which is roughly six times the price of regular Nepali honey. The Kulung people have used the honey for centuries as a cough syrup and an antiseptic. For Mauli, honey-hunting is the only way to earn the cash he needs to buy the few staples he cannot produce himself in his land, such as salt and cooking oil.

15

With bees stinging him through his clothes and the ladder swinging in space, Mauli realises that he is too old to be attempting this dangerous honey harvest. Since he is not attached to a safety rope, it would be certain death should he lose his grip. As such, Mauli has to push aside such a thought and concentrate on the problem at hand.

20

He swings his leg over to the rock and steps onto a small ledge, barely the width of a brick. Letting go of the rope ladder, he shuffles sideways to make room for his assistant to join him. Navigating his way deftly around the terrain has become second nature to him. Now, both men share the narrow ledge.

25

With each move toward the hive, the holds get smaller and further apart. He moves cautiously as the final section of loose, wet rock offers handholds and footholds no bigger than Mauli's fingertips. The bees continue to buzz around him, stinging him on his face, hands, and bare feet. Having no ounce of fear in him, Mauli holds onto a bundle of smouldering grass. Smoke from the grass drifts upward, sending waves of agitated bees into the air, disorientating them. This reduces the number of stings that Mauli will suffer. The hive pulses like a beating heart, each beat sending the angry bees into the air. They continue to swarm around Mauli, but he doesn't flinch. Instead, he climbs 30 metres to his prize. "This will be the last time that I harvest honey," he murmurs to himself. However, the wide smile plastered on Mauli's face and the glint of pride in his eyes tell otherwise. He makes his way down to the foot of the cliff and drinks deeply from his jug. He gazes at the cliff, shoulders his bamboo pole and moves silently down the trail towards home.

30
